I completely understand. Here are 2 photos from recent installs with the same equipment. Do you think this would suffice? Looks like one was too large and is being sent via google drive. Let me know if you have any issues accessing it, or if you need more details.

Town operated security cameras on private property is going to be a touchy issue, so we want the property owners to know we are providing all the information possible. Can we get a clearer image of the solar and flock pole? It can even be an existing mockup or model so long as the colors and configuration will be the same.
